THE closely packed columns of figure on the pages of the reports which are beed from the census office from time to time, as uninviting as they look to "the general reader," are full of suggestive and interesting matter, not only for political economists and scientists, but for every one who has intelligence enough to appreciate the importance of the fact which may be educed from these statistics, by analysis and comparison with previou reports. Some wonderful results are own by comparison alone. In the year 1850 the national census gave as the en tire products of manufactures, mining, and fisheries in the United States only $1,019, 106,616. In 1870 the single State of Pennsylvania propuced in manufactures alone, exclusive of mines and fisheries $725,599,424. If the aggregate of the mining were included, the return would, no doubt, caual the whole product of the entire country in 1850. Such a growth same ratio as the last, the aggregate for Pennsylvania in 1880 will be nearly $2. 000,000, or considerable more than the entire product of the nation in 1860. We merely make these statements as illustrating the importance of the census reports It would take a large volume to exhibit hands, and who are thoroughly convinced their bearing on matters affecting the health, the social condition, the political status, and material prosperity of the peo

Illinois Crop Prospects. CHICAGO, May 31.—The morning papers published reports from a large number of points in Illinois and Iowa in regard to the present prospect of crops, from which it appears that the crops generally are backward, particularly corn, on account of the cold weather this spring, but a large area is being planted, and with fine weather henceforth the prospects for at least an average wild is least an average yield is good. Wheat, particularly fall wheat, is looking badly in many localities, and in some counties they are plowing up wheat fields and planting them in corn. The Times of to-day asserts that there has never beeen any genuine agreement between England and America touching indirect claims. It cannot help thinking that if the official telegrams on the subject had been communicated directly to the foreign ministers of either government instead of being filtered through a ma-chine. The chasm which separated them would have been recognized long ago with the correspondence before us con-cludes the Times: We must consider the failure of the arbitration inevitable, and we may thank the American Senate for this, had it accepted the supplemental article without amendment our position would have been awkward. endment our position
